

MINOR TOUCH-UP

No matter how careful you are, there is a high probability that your cabinets are going to get nicks or scratches. Repair the damage as soon as possible. You can tell if you are experiencing water damage, the finish will start turning a milky color if it is a stained product. If it is a painted product, the finish will start to flake off. The sooner you repair the damage the easier it will be to fix the damage. Water damage is a lot like cancer. It starts slow and takes a while to progress and cause damage, but once it gets going, and if it has broken through to the bare wood, it is a lot more difficult to cure or fix. It is really pretty simple to fix if you know what to watch for and get it stopped when it is first noticeable.
